

STUDY ABROAD

2018 IMPACT REPORT

ISEP is a non-profit educational community dedicated to helping students overcome financial and academic barriers to study abroad. In partnership with 343 member institutions in 56 countries, we provide students with life-changing programs of studying, interning and volunteering abroad.

OUR COMMUNITY

I am excited to announce that in 2018 our team significantly increased the value of ISEP membership. In the last year we strategically expanded our membership, developed 48 new programs in collaboration with members, introduced full-time internships through our partnership with Global Experiences and launched the ISEP Alumni Association.

Members told us that through ISEP they achieved their comprehensive internationalization goals. With our breadth of membership in 56 countries across 343 universities, we empowered inclusive mobility and diversified the student population we mobilized to and from our member campuses. Together as a member community we delivered on our promise to expand accessible, affordable and immersive opportunities.

MEMBERSHIP – We welcomed 11 new university members in six countries. Our team visited 200+ member campuses – meeting with leadership, coordinators, prospective students and alumni. Members partnered with us to introduce 48 new programs, including short-term options in Costa Rica, expanding Arabic language learning in Kuwait and Lebanon and adding volunteer programs in Greece.

INTERNSHIPS – Through our partnership with Global Experiences we introduced full-time internship programs in 12 cities across 10 countries with affordable program fees exclusive to ISEP members. Our members also increased opportunities for students to intern while studying abroad.

GLOBAL MOBILITY – Members and students within our global community became more connected with a 23% increase in applications between members outside the U.S., with the highest growth between members in Asia and the Middle East.

ALUMNI – We launched the ISEP Alumni Association with a focus on a lifetime of connection by providing unique experiences for alumni across their careers. Within the first six months, more than 1,000 alumni joined our community.

In celebration of our 40th Anniversary in 2019, we will launch an interactive website for our ISEP Alumni Association to build a global community, creating long-term value for our alumni. Our history of working in partnership with institutions is what defines us as the largest global membership non-profit for student mobility. We're proud of the immersive experiences we offer together and the value ISEP students bring to member campuses.

Our impact is the difference an ISEP experience has on a student's life – the cultivation of global skills for employability, openness to difference, self-awareness and the desire to contribute to a more peaceful, just and inclusive world. I look forward to all that we will do together in our 40th Anniversary year, building a future of student mobility that is focused on the Centennial generation and beyond.

OUR MEMBER COMMUNITY

Working together as a member community, we provide inclusive and immersive experiences. Our ISEP Global team provides strategic solutions by tailoring our services to member and student needs. In 2018 we launched 48 new strategic initiatives across study, intern and volunteer abroad opportunities with our members.

New programs focus on language learning in Spanish and Arabic, service learning in Greece, and we are offering our first certificate programs with Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore in Milan, Italy. To provide a full portfolio of experiences to our members, we added full-time internships through a new partnership with Global Experiences. As a result, ISEP students now have access to full-time professional experiences in 12 cities in 10 countries.

During industry conferences we created connections for our members to expand and deepen their ties within our community. New relationships among members increased mobility between institutions outside the United States. 39% of our Moroccan students went to South Korea in 2018 – and overall, we experienced a 14% increase from the previous year on ISEP Global Exchange.

48 new strategic initiatives launched with ISEP members in 2018 across study, intern and volunteer opportunities.

ISEP Global team members visited the University of Ghana, one of 200+ member campuses our team traveled to in 2018.

Theresa Kwakye - ISEP Ghana Resident Director; Patricia Wilkins - Founder, BASICS International; Eleanor Kumahia - ISEP Ghana Administrative Assistant, Rosie Edmond - ISEP Director of Member Relations; Jessica Miller - ISEP Program Manager

“Being an ISEP member is easily identified as a mark of quality. While engaging with current and prospective partners at conferences, I’m always reminded of ISEP’s positive reputation globally.”

- Heidi Gregori-Gahan
Chair of the ISEP Board of Directors and Associate Provost for International Programs at University of Southern Indiana

“ISEP is a key partner for advancing comprehensive internationalization. Its affordable cost structure and vast network of member institutions make quality study abroad experiences accessible to a broad range of students. Moreover, ISEP brings to our campus students from countries not otherwise represented at our institution, and this enriches the cultural diversity found within our classrooms, laboratories and residence halls.”

- David Di Maria, Ph.D.,
Associate Vice Provost for International Education for the University of Maryland, Baltimore County

“ISEP has not only been a great partner for emergency preparation and management of the students we host, but also in advising us on our overall strategy. From working closely with ISEP’s leadership, we have confidence in our team and in our students.”

- Jennifer Wilkinson
Head of Partnerships at Roehampton University, London, U.K.

“Our students’ international learning experiences through ISEP are both accessible and affordable, and therefore ISEP is a crucial strategic partner for the University.”

OUR INCLUSIVE COMMUNITY

We value the real connections made through immersive study abroad – with each person engaged in their host community and with other students from around the world. This year 88% of ISEP participants surveyed said they made international friends, and 100% had the opportunity to interact with people from their host culture. Through an ISEP experience, students often learn as much about themselves as their new environment and friends. 87% of ISEP students said they gained greater understanding of another culture, and 67% said they learned more about their own culture.* ISEP students have the desire to not just see the world, but truly experience it in a practical way that creates a pathway to achieving their academic and career goals. Recent research demonstrated that the longer abroad, the more alumni agree their experience contributed to a job offer. 95% of our students went abroad for a semester or longer in 2018.

* ISEP Spring Post-Program Survey (2018). Data represents 265 respondents from 65 ISEP member institutions.

The most valuable thing...

“ ... I learned is to respect others’ cultures - learn about them and feel free to compare to your own - but do not judge something you don’t fully understand. And learn to embrace your own culture as a result! ”

- Molly Tate

The University of North Carolina, Greensboro to Philipps-Universität Marburg in Germany, Spring 2018

“ ... I experienced abroad was living with a Japanese host family, spending time with them, getting to know them, making mistakes and learning from them, laughing with them, eating delicious food with them, and having genuine conversations with them regarding our cultures, politics, and everything in between. ”

- Gabrielle Oliver

Howard University to Kansai Gaidai University in Japan, Spring 2018

from Leiden University, the Netherlands studied at Rider University, U.S. in Fall 2017 and was an ISEP Community Scholarship recipient.

I do think that my time abroad led to success in entrepreneurial skills. Improvising, overcoming difficulties and being able to do intercultural work is so important in my current career. I need all of it. I would definitely hire an ISEP student because I know they have the skills we need to succeed.”

Florian is the director and co-founder of Refugee Road, a start-up in Hamburg, Germany. Before founding his company, Florian was an economic intern with the German Embassy in Kenya.

OUR EMPOWERED COMMUNITY

Students have the opportunity of interning while studying abroad with 37 of our ISEP members. In 2018 we began our partnership with Global Experiences, offering full-time internships in 12 cities across 10 countries. Through our member university programs and our partnership with Global Experiences, ISEP students can now intern in 45 cities and in 21 countries.

Our students are investing in an international work and living experience, launching their careers by interning abroad. Developing career prospects through interning abroad, students build highly desirable skills for employment. These internships provide invaluable cross-cultural perspective in learning about the global working world.

37 ISEP members host programs for study and intern experiences abroad.

21 countries host ISEP students for internships abroad.

ISEP has partnered with Global Experiences, the leading provider in customized international internship programs for university students and graduates, to provide access for our students to full-time internship opportunities in 12 cities across 10 countries.

— RYLAND PLOEGER — from Gonzaga University, U.S. studied at the American University of Sharjah and interned at the U.S. Consulate in Dubai in the United Arab Emirates in Fall 2015 and Spring 2016.

“The experiences I had as an embassy intern piqued my interest in public service and international law; and helped me land an internship at the Washington State Governor’s Office the following summer. My ISEP experience was the key to all of my academic and professional success thus far because I was able to develop meaningful skills like cultural intelligence, adaptability and problem solving.”

Following her ISEP experience, Ryland was awarded a Fulbright English Teaching Assistantship in Manama, Bahrain. She also interned at the Badel Foundation, a Syrian peacebuilding organization, in Istanbul and taught English with Relief International in the Zaatari Refugee Camp. Ryland is now back in the U.S. working as a research assistant on a Harvard Graduate School of Education study on immigrant and refugee children in Boston Public Schools while applying to law school.

OUR ENGAGED COMMUNITY

Our students extend their experience beyond the classroom and into the local community by volunteering and enrolling in service learning programs. Connecting with locals and immersing themselves in the host community, ISEP students can volunteer for a hands-on educational experience at one of 66 ISEP members in 27 countries while studying abroad.

Since 1996 we have offered our ISEP volunteer programs in partnership with the University of Ghana and local non-governmental organizations, providing our students with volunteering opportunities that complement their studies. One of the 14 non-profits which students can volunteer with was created by an ISEP Alumna, Renee Farwell. She returned to Ghana and began her own organization, Mawuvio Outreach Program, which focuses on nutrition, housing and education for Ghanaian youth.

66 ISEP members host programs for study and volunteer, service learning or community engagement.

27 countries host ISEP students for volunteer abroad experiences.

SAROUCHE RAZI

from Macquarie University, Australia studied and volunteered at the University of Ghana in Spring 2005.

“My time in Ghana definitely led to my career and my commitment to service, but it also changed my life. My sister married another ISEP student from my Ghana program, and the experience opened up the world to me. After going to Ghana, I jumped at the chance to get a master’s in Mexico.”

Returning to Australia, Sarouche’s career began with practicing law at a large commercial firm. “That’s how I got my first job in Sydney,” he says. “My unique background, including my ISEP program in Ghana and the lifelong volunteer engagement that came from it, got me that job.”

As a principal lawyer, Sarouche leads the youth, culturally and linguistically diverse legal practice groups at Westjustice. He also practices pro-bono law with the Kimberley Community Legal Centre and teaches the Graduate Diploma of Legal Practice at the Australian National University.

ADVANCING OUR COMMUNITY

Our mission focuses on access, affordability and language learning – and through our 2018 ISEP Scholarships and the Annette Kade Scholarship we made 46 awards to students with financial need. All of our scholarships encourage applicants from statistically underrepresented backgrounds, and the majority of our awards went to first-generation college students.

In 2018 we provided application webinars to students from outside the U.S. who are less familiar with scholarships. Achieving our goal, we awarded 115% more ISEP Community Scholarships and ISEP Founders Fellowships to these students with a total of 45% coming from members outside the U.S.

ISEP COMMUNITY SCHOLARSHIP AND THE ISEP FOUNDERS FELLOWSHIP

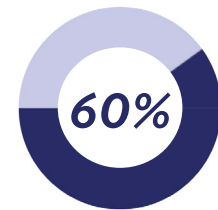

100% of donations to ISEP go directly to students by funding our ISEP Community Scholarship and ISEP Founders Fellowship. Through our 2018 Giving Tuesday and End-of-Year campaigns we raised 57% more than the previous year. Thank you to our generous community of members, staff, alumni and supporters of our mission of increasing access and affordability for study abroad.

SIMONE DREHER

from Louisiana State University, U.S. studied at Philipps-Universität Marburg, Germany in 2018-19 and was an ISEP Community Scholarship recipient.

Simone's focus on inclusion has come from her perspective as a student with chronic mobility accessibility impairments.

"With the opportunity to study abroad I was able to see differences in accessibility for individuals with mobility issues in different countries. Studying in Germany gave me an opportunity I wouldn't have had to compare how diverse cultures include disabled students, especially because my studies at Marburg tie directly to my interest in anthropology and health policy. And I also realized scholarships are an important part of making programs accessible and inclusive. Giving the opportunity for students of all kinds to see their future is very important. ISEP Scholarships are a major part of that opportunity."

With ISEP, Simone is presenting at the 2019 Diversity Abroad Conference, sharing advice from her experience.

ANGEL GELLER

from Nebraska Wesleyan University, U.S. studied at University of Waikato, New Zealand in Spring 2018 and was an ISEP Community Scholarship recipient.

Angel chose to study abroad at a majority Maori university, finding her experience rewarding in a drastically different space from what she was used to in Nebraska.

"As a Native American woman, I am often the only indigenous student in my U.S. university. But even at Waikato, which was an amazing indigenous space, I realized that New Zealand had different challenges that Native Americans could learn from. I was able to discuss my experience with other Native Americans studying with me and also speak to Maori students in their own language. The experience was so valuable. One thing that made me more comfortable than almost anything else was when Maori students picked me up at the airport. Hearing the students speak their own language was truly moving."

Angel is sharing with the larger study abroad community what she's learned. She presented at the 2018 NAFSA Region II Conference on supporting Native Americans while they study abroad, and she'll be speaking at the 2019 Diversity Abroad Conference.

OUR CONNECTED COMMUNITY

This year we launched our ISEP Alumni Association, a global community forging relationships between ISEP alumni for life-long connections. The ISEP Alumni Association is attracting members from around the world. In our inaugural year we provided expert-led webinars for career advancement and in-person gatherings through local chapter development in Australia, Morocco and the U.S. Each month we provide online webinars for alumni, led by experts on topics relating to international careers, graduate study, fellowships and service organizations. In 2019, our 40th Anniversary year, we will introduce an online community for all our 60,000 alumni.

1,000⁺ joined our new ISEP Alumni Association in the first six months since inception.

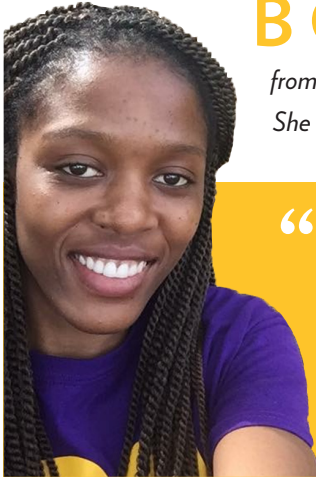

100% of participants from our first career advising webinar participated in follow-up individual coaching with ISEP and received job offers within four weeks.

TERHI MÖLSÄ

ISEP Board of Directors member and Chief Executive Officer at the Fulbright Finland Foundation; and ISEP Alumna from the University of Tampere, Finland and studied at the University of Kansas, U.S.

“ I became a life-long champion for international education in part because of my own exchange experience with ISEP. The new ISEP Alumni Association provides real ways for alumni to connect online and in person for networking and professional development, with a focus on leveraging the core competencies of international education for employability and professional achievement.”

BONE MASALA

from University of Botswana studied at East Carolina University, U.S. in 2017.

She has been offered a job as a financial analyst trainee with a local company in Botswana.

“ Language and intercultural fluency is very important. Studying abroad has helped me broaden my thinking and that’s what most employers are looking for. The career webinars from the ISEP Alumni Association were also helpful in finding a job. ” from Queens University of Charlotte, U.S. studied at Vesalius College, and interned at the U.S. Fulbright Commission to Belgium and Luxembourg, in Belgium in 2015. Currently he is an international admissions counselor at Purdue University in the U.S.

CROCKETT SEWELL

“ As an intern, I got to be an EducationUSA advisor and worked with Fulbright grantees in Belgium. I don’t know the exact moment it happened, but I just realized that it was the type of work I wanted to be doing. ” from Maryville College, U.S. studied at Thammasat University, and interned with Boat People SOS, a humanitarian law firm working with refugees in Bangkok, Thailand in 2016.

VIRGINIA JOHNSON

Currently she is a Rural Education Development Teacher for the Peace Corps in Zambia.

“ This experience solidified my desire to work in the humanitarian field and helped me focus my career goals on working with refugee communities. I am certain that my internship experience abroad and my study abroad experience in general helped me to achieve my current role as a Peace Corps volunteer in Zambia. ”

OUR SUPPORTIVE COMMUNITY

Our ISEP Council of Advisors is the elected voice of our member community. They represent ideas from regional and institutional perspectives that are important in advancing our mission. Together they work on committees to inform the direction of special initiatives serving our members, students and alumni.

The ISEP Board of Directors reflects the diversity of our member and broader community – offering their unique insights to our strategic direction. Each member is committed to providing leadership on philanthropic initiatives that advance our values of access, affordability and immersion.
