Latin America

Study in Costa Rica | Universidad de Costa Rica

Explore the natural wonders of Costa Rica including world renowned rainforests, beaches, national parks, waterfalls, animal sanctuaries, volcanoes, hot springs, and more. Enhance your Spanish language proficiency while developing life-long relationships by living in a homestay with a tico family. Thrive with the support of two full time on-site staff members who connect students to optional volunteer, excursion, and extracurricular opportunities.

Study in Brazil | Fundação Armando Alvares Penteado

Attracting visitors from all over the world, São Paulo is a diverse international city, but with its own distinct local flare. With street art on nearly every corner, the city is brimming with creativity, color, and energy. At FAAP, take courses in English or Portuguese alongside a community of local and international students in subject areas including business, international relations, media, area studies, and more.

Study in the Andes Mountains | The Centers for Interamerican Studies (CEDEI)

Take in the beauty of Ecuador, known for its rich biodiversity and mesmerizing landscapes composed of volcanoes, beaches, rainforests, and mountains. Experience the laid-back culture of Cuenca, a UNESCO World Heritage Site filled with stunning cathedrals, rotundas, and lush parks. Visit local indigenous villages, sandy beaches, snow-capped mountain ranges, and South America's nearby must-see sites: Machu Picchu and the Galápagos Islands.

Study in the Buenos Aires | Universidad del Salvador

Live in the sophisticated, multicultural, and dynamic metropolis of Buenos Aires, named the best city in the Spanish-speaking world for international students. Experience daily Argentinian culture and enhance Spanish language skills by taking classes with local students and living with a Porteño host family in the community. Coursework is also available in English in subjects including business, communication, and global studies.

Study in Costa Rica | International Center for Development Studies

Live in San José, the bustling capital city of Costa Rica, where it is warm all year long. Gain relevant skills through unique experiential-learning opportunities through two ICDS academic tracks: sustainability and social justice, or hospital shadowing and medical Spanish. Immerse yourself further in your host culture and practice Spanish daily while living with a host family that is matched to you based on your language level.

Study in Chile | Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso

Valparaíso is a vibrant city known as a hidden gem of Latin America and is surrounded with breath-taking panoramic views and beaches. Chile is filled with incredible natural wonders and offers vast adventurous activities to take part in such as surfing, sandboarding, and touring Magdalena Island. Immerse yourself further into the community through optional volunteer opportunities. Coursework at PUVVC is available in English and Spanish.
